DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

All pending claims (2, 3, and 5-11) were examined in this final office action.

Response to Arguments

Rejection under 35 USC 103(a)

Applicant's arguments filed 16 May 2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Greulich and Real-time teach or suggest the claimed invention. Real-time specifically discloses online customer configuration, arriving at a real-time quotation, and then placing the order (please see Item U, page 2). A web browser that provides an application service, such as real-time quoting, that is delivering the application to the user via the browser interface is embedding code executable by the client computer. In general terms this is software. For sure it is not hardware.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 2, 3, and 5-11 are rejected under 35 USC 103(a) as being unpatentable over Greulich (Paper #20050401, US 5,241,464 hereinafter referred to as "Greulich") in view of Real-time (Paper #20050401, a collection of prior art cited in PTO-892, Items: U-W).

Greulich teaches the creation and ordering of custom business forms on a customer computer and transmitting ordering parameters, design, and verbiage electronically to an order-receiving computer for the printing of business forms. Greulich teaches automatic price calculation at the customer's computer based on inputting ordering information (see at least abstract; Fig. 1 (15, 17, 18, 12, 27); Fig. 4 (40); col. 1, line 53 through col. 2, line 11). Greulich further teaches:

- Providing a customer a pricing engine; displaying automatically the price quote at the customer: pricing includes one or more printing configuration options selected by the customer; displaying on the customer computer (see at least Fig. 4 (46, 41); col. 6, lines 37-66); pricing system (see at least Fig. 8 (58); col. 8, lines 32-34).

- Graphical images: graphical representations; customer logo (see at least col. 5, line 21-28).
- Color: (see at least Fig. 4 (INK); col. 3, line 19; col.6, line 54).
- Payment: paying by credit card, cash on delivery, or account (see at least col. 9, lines 35-51).
- Proofing: proofing before final production (see at least Fig. 1 (22); Fig. 10b (22, 76); col. 10, line 5); displays printed page layout graphically to customer electronically prior to customer finalizing order (please note examiner's interpretation: customer proofing the order) (see at least Fig. 9ab (W)).
- Automatically calculating a price quote based on the one or more printing configurations options selected by the customer: pricing engine automatically and substantially instantaneously calculated a new price quote (see at least Fig. 8 (58); Fig. 9b (64); col. 5, lines 45-49; col. 8, lines 32-67).
 - each time the customer selects or enters data for one or more new configuration options at the customer: (see at least Fig. 9b (64); Fig. 9c (Update Pricing); Fig. 9e (Update Pricing); col. 8, line 63 through col. 9, line 63).
 - before forwarding to the processing computer at a printing service provider: customer receives pricing updates to finalize the order before printing service provider (e.g. separate production site) receives the order (see at least Fig. 1 (27, 28); Fig. 9ad; Fig. 10b (27, 28); Fig. 11 (27, 28); col. 6, lines 6-11; col. 9, lines 52 through col. 10, line 60).

Greulich teaches all the above as noted under the 103(a) rejection and teaches a) remote ordering of forms, and b) automatically and substantially instantaneously calculating a new price quote, but does not disclose a real-time web browser. Real-time teaches the explosive movement across multiple industries (e.g. electronic commerce, investment, or insurance) to real-time quoting over the Internet using web browsers (e.g. configure custom systems, arrive at a real-time quotation, and placing the order; real-time pricing quotes on stocks; real-time quotes for insurance) (U: see at least page 2; V: see at least page 1; W: see at least page 2). Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at time of the invention to modify the method of Greulich to implement web browser-based real-time quoting as taught by Real-time, in order to provide faster response to customers conducting online transactions, and thereby increase sales.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
